Dedication

PRESIDENT
JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY

1917— 1963

With deep sorrow we mourn the death of our president.

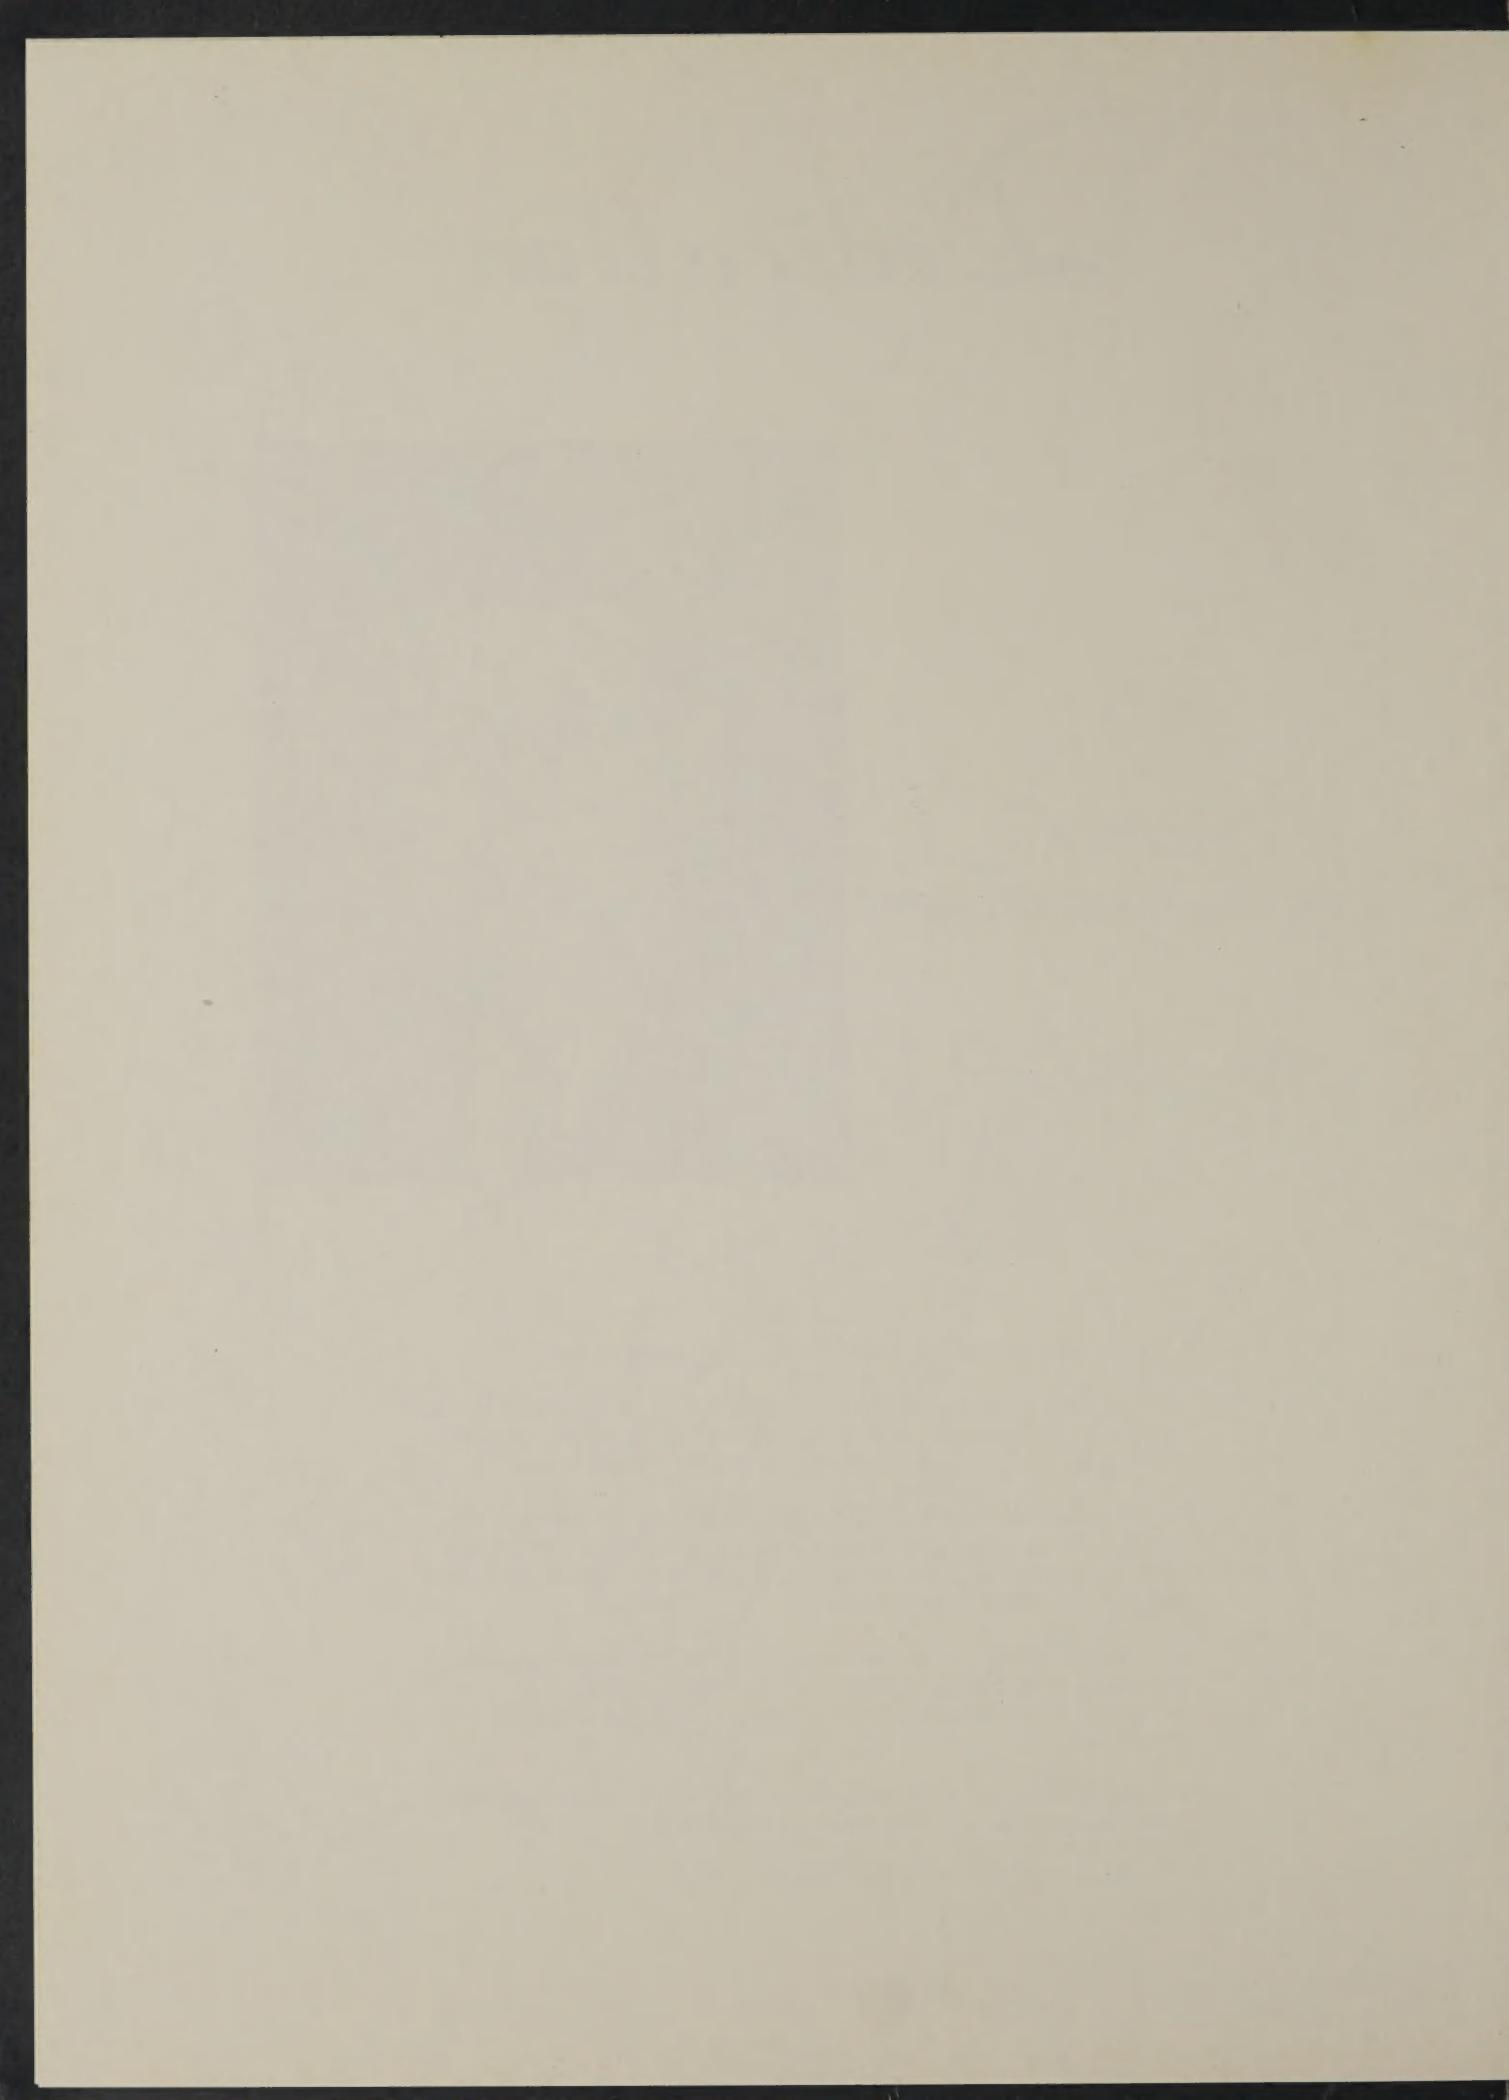

Confidently, we had looked to him, youthful and vigorous, as the symbol of our America, and of the broad vistas stretching before us as we grew ready to accept the responsibilities of our future.

With shocked disbelief, we felt the shattering of that vigor and nobility. The dreams and burdens which he carried on his shoulders have shifted to ours. We, the generation which he represented, must rise to accept that responsibility.

May the shadow of his death serve as an everpresent reminder of the ideals of morality, intellect, and culture which were the basis of our country's beliefs, beliefs which must once more be instilled in Americans.

May the beacon of his aspirations serve as a torch guiding the generation which lives to perpetuate his memory.

God rest the soul of this great man.

Students of Beachwood: you have a unique school. Beachwood can never be compared to a factory or an institution as in the case with larger schools. Beachwood is liberal; Beachwood is constantly changing; Beachwood has personality.

In what other school do students revolt against the price of cafeteria food? In what other school do teachers and students have such a vital and equal relationship? Where else do students use the faculty lounge as a study hall? Where else are dress codes and hall passes and the tradition of raising hands in the classroom complacently ignored? Where else do students receive permission to cut class to go out to eat? Where else do teachers throw stones at windows, and throw books out windows? You may not have realized it, but all this has happened at Beachwood. You may not realize it, but this atmosphere of liberality is good. It is refreshing.

Students of Beachwood: take advantage of your school's personality. We do not urge you to disobey authority, tradition and rules for attention or for status, nor do we advocate stealing or murder for finer reasons. But wear your hair in pigtails if you so desire. Ride your bicycle to school if you so desire. You may be ostracized, but more often you will be imitated.

C U R R I C U L U M

We cannot measure dedication, or friendship, or worthiness. Rather, we sense these qualities and acknowledge with gratitude those who guide us.

Dear Students:

It is a pleasure to enter the high school this year, not only because of the added facilities, but due more to the added maturity that I sense in you students. Faculty members are always commenting to me on their amazement at how well you do academically, how capable you are of organizing your own activities and how friendly and cooperative each of you is.

Congratulations!

Life is always a struggle to build. The struggle for this community has been to build school facilities for you. Your struggle will be to build your own lives--mature and dedicated to wholesome purposes.

I consider it a privilege to be able to help in a small way in both struggles--the community's and yours.

High School's Progress

The success of any venture lies in the dedication of those who initiate it. So it is with the Beachwood Schools. From the creation of the first public school in Bleachwood Village in the year 1925, which consisted of first through sixth grades, to the ultimate completion of Bleachwood Junior-Senior High School in the 1960's, the administration has dedicated itself to establish a school system whose prospective was projected toward the future of its graduating seniors.

In this 1963-1964 school year, the cumulative efforts of Dr. Parker, Superintendent of Schools, Mr. McCullough, Business Manager, the School Board, and the Parents' and Teachers' Association, have provided a firm foundation of guidance and direction to lead the students of the community toward full and fruitful lives.

Your faculty is making every effort to develop a well-rounded curriculum which includes extracurricular activities, so that each individual student can exploit and utilize his own interests and aptitudes to the maximum. This is the grand purpose of education--to give the individual every opportunity to fulfill his own potentialities so that he may achieve emotional maturity, intellectual satisfaction, and personal happiness.

Thus, it is essential that a maximum amount of freedom be made available to both students and teachers. But freedom carries with it the burden of responsibility. The mature accept this burden as a "sweet yoke" for it leads to freedom --that highest dignity of man.

Be Yourself—We Need YOU

"Is it true blondes have more fun?"

In Beachwood's Guidance Program we are much concerned with the healthy development of a student's personality in order to enhance his own welfare and that of his society.

As a public school in a democracy we tolerate and even encourage the development of a broad spectrum of individual personalities. A cornerstone of democracy is the concern for the dignity and integrity of the individual.

As never before, a lack of courage, and desire for superficial comfort, ease, and security tempt us not to express ourselves as individuals, thus forsaking this priceless spiritual and democratic heritage.

Nietche's words of a century ago have special meaning for us today. Speaking of individual personality, he said, "The surest way to corrupt youth is to instruct him to hold in higher esteem those who think alike than those who think differently."

Nothing can be funnier, properly considered, than the fact that one's own father is a pygmy if he stands far enough off. Perspective really is the comic element in things.

--G. K. Chesterton

Perspective is an amazing thing; an almost often thing. It makes the butterfly larger than the eagle, the mouse weightier than the hippopotamus, my hand big enough to hide entirely the heavenly spendor of Mighty Orion, and my thumbnail greater than the moon. But we have ceased to wonder at it--it's so commonplace!

Psychological perspective, far-sightedness --may we call it wisdom. Perhaps it should do the same thing that visual perspective does: make things awesome, make them wonderful, and, when "properly considered," make them funny. Perhaps this is man's greatest dignity: not to take the world too seriously, and to be cognizant that, in some ways, he is greater than the universe.

Seek perspective. Seek wisdom. Youth is able to do so. Wisdom says in the BOOK OF PROVERBS: "Love me, and thou shalt earn my love; wait early at my doors, and thou shalt gain access to me."

And Philosophy in Humanities

May I have the indulgence of the graduating class in requesting one favor and in suggesting one bit of advice?

Would those of you who have come to realize it, tell the underclassmen that school is not really an adult conspiracy against youth, that the teacher is not the hired agent of the state and the community, and that textbooks are not devious instruments of torture. Why do I ask this of you, the graduating class? Because you are at the only age where this advice might be heeded. Those younger than you do not believe it themselves, and those much older are adults and therefore suspect. So on your visits back to school from college and from the world of business, please tell your younger friends that we mean no conspiracy.

As for the advice, let me start by saying that if America has anything of value, it is freedom for the individual. Liberty, however, is a two-edged sword. One edge you know well: it is labeled privilege. The other side is equally important but lesser known. It is marked responsibility--individual responsibility--for there can be no other kind.

Use the words of the German philosopher Kant as your touchstone. Let your actions be such that, if applied as a universal law, they will lead to the betterment of mankind.

World Literature Great Books Journalism

To stimulate the intellect the high school curriculum offered two literature-enrichment courses. Great books, a round-table discussion group in which the great authors of all ages, from Job and Plato to Salinger and Camus were read, discussed, analyzed and digested, was taught by Mr. Perry. World literature and drama, a more detailed course along the same lines, was instructed by Mr. Dober, and emphasized the style of the author and his over-all contribution to world literature and drama.

For those who wished a working knowledge of creative writing and newspaper work, Mrs. Hurst conducted a journalism class. Her success in creating a newspaper was aptly demonstrated as the high school received its first printed BEACHCOMBER last fall.

A Respite from the Academic Speech Business Courses Secretarial Work

Intent on business as a career or as an avocation, the high school student elected business English, accounting, and business law, taught by Mrs. Boyer and Mr. Berko, as well as shorthand and typing. Here he grasped fundamental secretarial skills, learned the complex procedures of the business world, and developed a necessary understanding of the workings of that field.

To supplement this preparation for life in a world of talkative people a course in speech was offered under the direction of Mr. Berko. By enabling the student to read more quickly and diversely, Mrs. Ruth Stotter, reading consultant, provided him with matter to discuss and the ability to increase his knowledge in all topics.

Every Beachwood High School student should have a minimum of two years of foreign language instruction.

College bound or not this is the wise formula to guide you. Your years of foreign language instruction will be invaluable for college preparation not only in foreign language, but in English grammar, English literature, and the social sciences. A good knowledge of a foreign language could very well be the determining factor in getting you that top job in the business world since most companies are trading world-wide. The need for well-trained engineers is great but not so great as the need for leaders among engineers, those who know people, how to work with them, and how to help them with the problems which must be solved for everyday living. language, I believe, will include some of the understanding necessary for the individual in today's world.

If anyone continues his studies beyond the bachelor degree, he will find a language requirement for almost every field. If anyone wishes to obtain a Ph.D. he must have at least a reading ability in one or more foreign languages.

I believe we have here at Beachwood High School an excellent language program both in its breadth, four languages offered, and in its depth, five years of French, four years of Latin and Spanish, and two years of German. This redounds both to the credit and to the success of those who take advantage of this program.

Individuality Thru Art

Both study and creation of art were correlated under the instruction of Miss Jesse Lovano. Lecture, slides, and discussions based on a textbook provided a foundation in the history of art, while ceramics, silk-screening, sculpture, and painting in oil and water color developed native talents. Field trips were sources of inspiration, adding variety.

Group Talent Thru Music

Mrs. Virginia Dunkelberg and Mr. George Shahan coordinated a program of vocal and instrumental music. Due to their efforts Beachwood's marching band became a reality and the choir produced a musical comedy, both innovations supplementing the curricular schedule.

Although physical education at Beachwood did not include the fifty-mile hikes advocated by President Kennedy, the program nevertheless was vigorous. In spite of themselves both sexes benefitted by forty minutes of exercise twice a week.

Miss Marilyn Owen instituted a unique phenomenon in girls' physical education. With diminishing protest, unaccustomed females donned traditional gym suits and participated. The hardier extended their skills by taking part in intramurals after school.

Separated only by a collapsible wall, boys took gym at the same time as their feminine counterparts. Standardized physical fitness tests were administered at the beginning of the year by Mr. James Schrock to determine the comparative athletic achievement of Beachwood boys. A rigorous schedule of gymnastics, wrestling, and tumbling, as well as the conventional team sports, resulted in substantial improvement in their test results.

With the spirited approval of the well-versed upperclassmen, Health Education was taught this year exclusively to the sophomores. This course, held once a week, was based on mental and physical hygiene, and placed an emphasis on the physiological, social, and emotional aspects, as well as first aid and body care.

"Oh no! Not another fire drill."

UNDER CLASS

These are the sophomores and the juniors, the backbone of our school. Their days are filled with knowledge gained, friendships strengthened, experiences felt. They look anxiously to the future with hope and expectation.

The Sophomore Class was a group of enthusiastic, sociable bridge-addicts. They accepted with gratitude the permission to attend senior high school affairs and with cupidity the sanction to commence earning class money.

Admirable Mr. Jack Mercer guided President Alan Feinstein, Vice-President Winston Liao, Secretary Bonnie Hershey, and Treasurer Steve Mintz, who, in turn, attempted to guide the class of 1966. That their efforts were not misguided was demonstrated by a profitable car wash and three basketball hops. They also set another precedent in Beachwood (where the record of precedents set is unprecedented) with an all school dance.

The originality and joviality of the sophomore class were appreciated additions to senior high school life.

Junior Class

The class of 1965 was a vacillating medley of vitality and lethargy, avid participation and reticence. Under the austerity program of advisor, Mr. Larry Davis, class activities were held to a small number, with the quality of the experience being stressed. Class officers, Robbie Miller, president; Nancy Newhauser, vice-president; Debbie Stein, secretary; and Julie Drew, treasurer; sought to encourage greater class unity and association through these events.

The fund and fun-raising year began with a car wash--this year, as always, a good source of revenue. Winter saw a toboggan party, and with spring came the carnival, a perennial favorite. This year a new feature was added:

The Student Council of 1963-1964 will go down in history as the First Reforming Council of Beachwood. Reacting to charges of unconstitutional practices from all sides, the tribunal of students moved swiftly to clean house.

The first step was the disenfranchisement of all committee chairmen and club representatives. Under the old regime, these unelected people had voted in council, seriously warping the power structure of the body in favor of the Upper Class against the poorer classes (juniors and sophomores.) This was rapidly changed.

The second major event was the rewriting of the school constitution. A committee working under the auspices of the Student Council suggested massive changes in the antiquated and inept document, and the entire school voted on the proposed amendments.

The Katz administration also did a stalwart job. Through a candy drive, the sale of Porkie hats and pompoms, and a Family-Fun-For-All, co-sponsored with the Senior Class, the debt accumulated by the last administration was paid off; and by fastidious abstinence from any form of toxic drink, Treasurer Leeb restored respectability to her office.

Finally, adding excitement and a new depth to council politics was the rapid rise to power of Boss Winger. By astute political maneuvering, charismatic appeal, and, when necessary, the use of raw power (ask Jeff Friedman, Dem--214), Winger elevated himself to a position of tremendous influence in council. Roaming the floors during a meeting, he would make motions from any part of the hall, intimidate representatives, and freely criticize officers. However, Winger's opposition to council measures was usually thoughtful and beneficial.

These factors contributed to start the foundation of a tradition which it is hoped future Student Councils will continue and expand.

From council meetings are born the fund-raisers, pom-poms and porky hats, the book store, the candy sale, and the Exam Slam.

N.H.S. Guides College Planning

Gloria Colb and Judy Liff display the equipment used in showing college films.

In high schools all over America, the National Honor Society symbolizes high standards of Character, Leadership, Service and Scholarship. Members give of their time to serve the school according to the motto of the organization, "Noblesse Oblige," meaning that leadership carries with it obligations.

N.H.S. added to its program this year by admitting provisional members. These juniors participated in all N.H.S. activities, and upon their confirmation in the spring, received their National Honor Society pins.

With the guidance of Dr. Joseph Ruben, this service organization concentrated its efforts on informing college-bound students, sponsoring College Night, and an informal college conference of alumni. Filmstrips of various colleges were shown, and the N.H.S. bulletin board displayed scholarship information.

With these and other projects, the National Honor Society continued to serve Beachwood.

F.T.A. Explores the Academic

Industrious Beachwood students united in an organization whose chief purpose is to acquaint and familiarize themselves and others to the opportunities, advantages and needs of the teaching profession. This was the newly founded ARISTOTLE chapter of the Future Teachers of America.

As early as November, members inspired by Mrs. Mary Fording, demonstrated their eagerness to establish themselves with their first function, a "get-acquainted" tea during which prospective members were introduced to F.T.A.

Plans for the 1963-64 school year included films, slides, and speakers, all of which dealt with the subject of education from the teacher's point of view, and joint meetings with the F.T.A.'s of other schools.

It is through the Future Teachers of America that students were encouraged to pursue their individual interests and careers.

The Future Teachers of America inducted their officers with a moving ceremony and a well-planned, well-attended tea.

The 1964 Oculus staff has a modest announcement to make: we are proud of our yearbook! Sometimes it was dull writing copy, time-wasting to take pictures, impossible to create fresh lay-outs. But now we are through. We are relaxed and we are relieved. We are depleted. We are happy.

Our staff included both unconventional and practical people who, all and each, loudly proclaimed the correct style and content of THE YEARBOOK. We were adaptable, emotional and diligent.

We ask you: read this, the culmination of our whims, inspirations, and efforts. Some of the copy is dull; our writers were not omniscient. Some of the pictures are blurry; our photographers were not omnipotent. Some of the captions are questionable; our overseers were not omnipresent. But most of it is interesting; some of it hilarious; and all of it reflects the personality of Beachwood 1963-1964.

A complaint of the students of Beachwood has been satisfied. We were presented this year with a printed newspaper wherein typographical errors and mimeographical blurs were eliminated.

The BEACHCOMBER was organized by the journalism class and supervised by Mrs. Hurst. All learned by their mistakes and showed consistent improvement in each of the eight issues published. Response from the student body was overwhelming and readers anxiously awaited their copies at the end of each month.

The four-page publication, consisting of a news, editorial, feature, and sports page, was edited by Shelly Dobrin, Ed Leventhal, Tom Faranda, and Stu Kutler, respectively. from a conscientious business staff, managed by Sherry Weiner and Sue Myers. Total coordination was the job of Editor-in-Chief, Marshall Winger and Managing Editor, Karen Zavell.

In early November, several newspaper staff members had the opportunity to participate in THE CLEVELAND PRESS Journalism Workshop for high school students. At this time, noted newswriter, Max Freedman spoke and thirteen workshops were conducted concerning the various departments of a newspaper.

Industry and cooperation have demonstrated the ability of Beachwood journalists to themselves and to the student body. The future will see the continuation and improvement of the often funny, sometimes ludicrous, but always eagerly awaited publication.

The Big-Little Sisters' Committee held a "get-acquainted" breakfast to hasten the assimilation of the seventh grade girls. Sixty-three witnessed a tea for new female teachers and high school students, followed by a highly successful canned food drive.

A future plan and a daily effort of the Cabinet is to set an example for the girls of Beachwood in dress, conduct, and spirit.

Bridge Seizes Underclass Minds

With the speed of a light wave, the square tables in the north end of the cafeteria were filled every 5B lunch period. The air was stirred with the sound of cards being shuffled, and the fervent cries of "two spades, three no-trump," and when one's partner had erred, "&%#%#."

Though some teachers frown on this, investigation has revealed that the same process goes on furtively in the teachers' lounge! And when we hear a reactionary decrying the "lecherous game which burrows its way into the virginal minds of innocent children," let us remember that they objected to the steam engine too.

This past grid season was the finest in Beachwood's short history. The improved Bisons won three games in eight starts compared to last year's 1-7 outing.

The Bisons opened the 1963 season with a 22-0 loss to heavily favored St. Stanislaus High. The Bisons played well and had driven to the Stanislaus 8-yard line when the gun sounded.

The following week the Bisons breezed to an easy 12-0 victory over Hawken School. Although our offense threw away numerous opportunities, the defensive unit played well, holding the Hawks scoreless.

In our East County League opener, Beachwood dropped a 34-0 contest to the Solon Comets. The Bisons failed to contain the powerful Solon offense in what proved to be a lop-sided match.

On October 5, the Bisons took their second game of the season in a 14-8 come-from-behind battle over St. John Cantius at Tremont field. Trailing 8-0 at halftime, the Bisons rallied for two second half touchdowns to take the victory.

Crushing Tackles Mark Grid Year

In the next game the Chagrin Falls Tigers took their twenty-fifth consecutive game without a loss by trouncing visiting Beachwood 66-0. The Bisons were hampered by injuries to key players.

The Beachwood grid team won their third game of the year on October 18, in a tight 8-6 thriller against the Independence Blue Devils. The Bisons drew first blood, but had to hold a late fourth quarter rally by the Blue Devils to ice the victory.

Against the Orange Lions, the Bisons were halted 20-0 by the powerful Orange line. A last second touchdown by Orange hurt Beachwood's morale.

In the season finale, the Warrensville Tigers downed the Beachwood Bisons 44-14, on a rain-soaked Tiger field. Warrensville rolled to a commanding 30-0 half-time lead, but the second half scoring was even as the Bisons gained control.

As Coach Schrock put it, "This was our most successful season from the standpoint of wins and loses. We hope this year's squad has established some precedents which will make them a better team next year."

BASKETBALL '63-'64

Highlight Basketball Season

Outstanding individual efforts, near upsets and record-breaking team performances highlighted the 1963-64 basketball season. In his third year as varsity coach, Mr. Tom Mattern formed a team which could run and shoot with the best, and yet slow the game down to a walk if need be.

Each time the starting five stepped to center court, they were dwarfed by the opposition. Despite the lack of height, which saw no player break six foot, the Bisons used alertness, a good shooting eye, and teamwork to down five foes.

Although, "Our Team Will Fight" was a more realistic cheer this year than "V-I-C-T-O-R-Y," the cheerleaders chanted and rallied the crowd at each game. Just like the athletes, they started their training in the summer. Between splits, flips, and jumps there were plenty of "charley horses." Throughout the football and basketball seasons, both the varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders leaped, wept and screamed.

Chuck Scantlebury and Ken Eichenbaum out in front.

Nineteen hundred sixty-four saw the first full season of cross country for Beachwood High School. The harriers under the coaching abilities of Mr. Jack Mercer improved over last year's records by defeating teams from Willoughby South, Northfield and Shaker's JV's and, in doing so, showed great promise for the future. Of the top eight runners, six will be returning next year. Among these is letterman Ken Eichenbaum who holds a school record of 10.27 for the two-mile course.

Twenty-four boys faithfully participated in practice sessions and meets and also contested both Gilmore and University School in soccer.

The year 1963 saw the emergence of another new first for the Bisons' short athletic history. Under the fine training of Coach Jack F. Mercer, thirty-four students were organized into Beachwood's first track team. It was a year of learning for all those involved. The track team managed victories over Hudson, Hawkin and Independence.

Leading the Bisons in competition last year were Butch Breen, in weight events, Ron Rafal, a sprinter, and Merle Gordon, a hurdler. Other returning lettermen are Ken Pressman, Chuck Scantlebury and Ed Leventhal. Coach Mercer and the team were greatly pleased with last year's achievements and are looking toward '64 as a year for victories.

Track Aces, Ed Leventhal, Merle Gordon, Ron Rafal, Ken Pressman look to the finish line.

Golfers Swing for the Greens

Facing its final year in East County League action, Beachwood's ever-outstanding golf teams met opposing schools in ten matches on the links.

Beginning practice in February for the first match, the Bisons eagerly anticipated the East county Golf Tournament. Last season Beachwood made a clean sweep of the three trophies awarded at the annual event. Coach Hederstrom hoped that this season would prove to be as rewarding.

Highland Golf Course was the site for the District Tournament which sends its winners on to the state finals. With the consistancy which marked the season's play, the Bisons made an impressive showing at the District meet.

Varsity Golf

Ernie Isenstadt and Steve Weiss anticipate spring practice.

Beachwood introduced its first tennis team this spring under the direction of Mr. Allen Roberts. The eleven members of the squad participated in the Greater Cleveland High School Tennis League. The Bison netters played in the South Division, competing against John Adams, East, Benedictine, Chagrin, Orange and Hawken High Schools.

In their first year of competition the team lacked experience. Nevertheless, the members of the squad showed excellent spirit and a great desire to improve. The future holds much in store for Beachwood and its newest sport.

The Bisons played eight meets this season. It is hoped that next year Beachwood be able to play at home on its own courts.

Seven letters were awarded to the outstanding participants in the sport. Six of these lettermen will be returning next year, laying the foundation for a strong and victorious team.

SENIORS

Four score and ten
we face the world, a band of eager people!
Each of us is fearful,
each of us is brave.
Each of us takes with him a portion of Beach-
wood and each leaves behind a portion of himself.

Mr. Roberts,

Each senior leaving Beachwood will carry with him personal memories of your impish grin, your admonishing seriousness, and your teasing humor.

You steered our financial endeavors, succored our economic foibles, sympathized with our personal mishaps, guided us through fun and frenzy with good sense, good taste, and good humor.

You have helped us to create a portion of life rich in experience and warm with friendship. We dedicate to you, Advisor, Friend, and Teacher, the Senior Section of the 1964 Oculus.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Vires acquirit eundo--"We gain strength as we grow" is not only the school's motto, but also that of the graduating class of 1964.

The Class of '64 has acquired a great deal of unity in the past year. Each member of the class participated in one of the many projects undertaken by the class, and it is because of this that class unity has become a reality in '64.

School spirit also has become quite evident this year. The seniors have supported the school projects with a great deal of enthusiasm, and have set the standards for future classes. The spirit of the seniors has also been displayed by their fine attendance at high school athletic events. The Class of '64 was at its finest in its support of the Oculus. Showing their spirit, the seniors united in their support of the Oculus in order to make it the best yearbook Beachwood High School has ever seen. The Class of '64 can be proud of its outstanding achievements and the fine example which it has set.

Many classes in the past have had class unity. I feel, however, the Class of '64 is distinct in the respect that we have united both class unity and school spirit to give our class a new kind of strength--a strength which we have gained through our growth at Beachwood High School.

EDDIE LEVENTHAL, Class President

Senior Class Officers

TOP to BOTTOM: Tim Gallagher, Treasurer; Laurie Pesselman, Secretary; Ellyn Feren, Vice-President.

Seniors to Embark

BRYAN ADELMAN

Happiness will be his lot;
He lives this life and worries not.

JEFFREY PAUL ALBERT

When Jeff is talking to the girls,
His flag of chivalry unfurls.

CHARLES ANTHONY
AMATO

Chuck likes a hot-rod if it wildly
careens
'Round curves and off bridges and into ravines!

SUSAN AMSTER

The Senior Class will rise and clap
When Susan dons her nurse's cap.

As the bricks of a building are each solid and sturdy in themselves, so is each member of the senior class an entity in himself. As each brick is, in itself, without power to act, so is each class member without strength as a separate being.

Build! Create! And the bricks are bonded by cement to create an edifice strong and impervious. Build! Create! And the students erect a staunch structure with power and vigor. The cement which binds our class is a spirit of unity. The foundation of our building was laid many years ago, as the original students began attending Beachwood schools.

As the school grew, the

MALKA BLEIER

We hold the mem'ry of our first foreign student dear,
And hope you enjoyed your stay
with us this year.

Eagerly but Sadly

bricks were piled higher.
The original foundation
still stands; the new additions are guided by the old.

The result is a marvel
of modern architecture.
The design is classic:
friendship, warmth, and kindness are ageless. The elements are functional:
service, education, enjoyment. The finished product is splendid to behold. The bricks will remain sturdy and the cement will hold fast. The building will weather all obstacles.
It shall remain steadfast.

Our friendships will not crumble. The qualities with which we have built this structure will remain with us for a lifetime. We will weather all storms. We will emerge
in the sunshine.

JOHN SPENCER CARMOSINO

John is small, has curly locks,
Jose Jiminez's voice he mocks.

CAROLE ANN BRADLEY

President of F.T.A.,
Reliable in every way.

ABRAHAM CANTOR

On politics OUR Abe is bent,
So he can indulge argument.

LYNDA SUE COMET

Just a girl of simple grace,
Happy heart and smiling face.

CAROL CONHAIM

Within she is as bright a jewel
As the colors she wears each day to school.

SHARON LYNN DIAMOND

We see this girl as a bride,
With Dennis Kaufman at her side.

STEVE JEFFREY DICK

This fellow has strong inclinations.
On test days he takes short vacations.

MICHELE DALE DOBRIN

To everyone her paint brush tells
That as an artist she excels.

MICHELLE PAULA EICHENBAUM

She has numerous connections
With numerous boys' affections.

TOM FARANDA

He's amiable and likes playing fair,
Does everything with a manly air.

eady to slave and serve.

ROGER FIORDALISI

Stoical, staunch, staid and steady,
For a football fight he's always ready.

ELLYN FEREN

Sociable and tres petite,
Laughing eyes and dancing feet.

JOEL FIEN

Clever, joking, once quite small,
He now looks over six feet tall.

MARY KAY FOX

A nature so completely kind,
A fault in her you scarce can find.

ALDA LYNNE FRIED

Her dream of stardom will be fulfilled
When on Broadway she is billed.

MARSHA GAIL FRIEDMAN

A nurse Miss Friedman wants to be
At Boston University.

TIMOTHY GEORGE
GALLAGHER

Small but smart with a clever mind,
Timothy's equal is hard to find.

DANIEL GELLIN

He is as funny as can be,
A joke for everything you see.

The first in all our class to drive
We're grateful that he's still alive!

GARY DOUGLAS
GREENWALD

A member of our high school
choir,
Over all others his voice rises
higher.

MARJORIE GREENWALD

This cute girl is never bawling,
Because the boys are always calling.

MICHAEL DAVID HARRIS

A funny remark with a humor keen
For even his feet--size fourteen.

KAREN B. HARVEY

We have watched her interests or additional pain and pleasure.

LINDA ANN IACOBUCCI

Alluring, if you catch her smile;
You'd like to talk to her awhile.

MELVIN MARTIN JACOBS

Oh, hear ye! hear ye! one and all,
Three cheers for this spirit of basketball.

JAMES BRADLEY HELLER

Jimmy is a man of all kinds of work,
Never was known his duty to shirk.

MERYL DIANE HERSHY

Little Miss Meryl sat on a barrel
eating a small fillet,
Along came Lennie Beck and gave her a peck and frightened her doldrums away.

JAMES JOSEPH

His humor so dry, his manner so meek,
His humor got wetter when he fell in the creek.

KEN KANTER

Ken is good looking, tall, and slim,
And all the girls fall for him.

BURTON ALAN KATZ

Constitutional tussle or football
fight,
This guy with a gavel proves his might.

DENNIS RICHARD
KAUFMAN

We see him driving fast and merry
In his Jaguar with his Sherry.

Advisor, advertisers.

HARVEY KEETI

Of organizational ambition,
A manager and statistician.

CATHERINE M. KLEIN

She's tall and slender;
her ability
As head majorette shows
her agility.

DALE ALAN KOELEWYN

An example of heroism here,
Until a couple of girls appear.

MARSHA TERRY KRAIG

Marsha has pep in goodly supply,
And, we might add, she is not too shy.

STUART S. KUTLER

Stuart's always ready for a good,
hardy laugh;
And he's seldom seen without his
"better-half."

Top seniors remain after school to clean the blackboards.

EDWARD LEVENTHAL

Football, basketball, and track he enjoys,
For he's one of those all-around varsity boys.

DONNA SUE LEVIN

This young lady always brings the sun,
With a smile and a word for anyone.

MICHAEL L. LICHTMAN

Rarely seen without his betters:
Merle, Mel, and their orange sweaters.

JUDY SHARON LIFF

Stunning and striking, shines like a ruby,
All the men bid for dates with Judy.

ROBERT JON MANTEL

Brash and of blond-haired reknown,
Though some say formerly it was brown.

FAYE PAULA MARCUS

Neat, artistic, heavens above,
Unbearable if she weren't in love.

KENNETH E. MATLOW

Happy though he looks forlorn,
A player of the old French horn.

SANDRA KAY
McGINNIS

No cosmetics Sandee seeks,
For pretty blonde hair and rosy cheeks.

SHERYL MILLER

A pretty face and a pretty air,
Many a brave heart lies vanquished
there.

STEVEN MITTELMAN

Some lean to the left, some to the right,
But Mittle-man is our delight.

SUSAN GAIL MYERS

Sue is a girl we shall never forget,
One of the jolliest we've ever met.

VICKI BETH OPPER

Her vivid good nature, her ready
wit,
Will never fail to make a hit.

LAURIE SUE PESSELMAN

Quickly she comes, quickly she goes,
She's fallen in love with beautiful clothes.

MARK PRIESAND

This fellow, as you can see,
Is a regular "bug" for chemistry.

SUSAN ROTHSTEIN

Susan Rothstein is emphatic:
For Elvis she is a fan fanatic.

GAYLE F. RUBIN

Interested and interesting,
Smart, and with a flair for jesting.

MARILYN CAROL
RUTMAN

Of gentle humor and gentle bearing,
Her soft sarcasm displays her daring.

CHARLES SCANTLEBURY

To good-natured, red-haired
Chuck,
We always wish the best of luck.

Seniors and underclassmen collaborate to build a unicorn.

DANIEL MURRAY
SCHMAYER

Perhaps you never knew at all,
That Dan's a whizz at basketball.

A cake, but no draft card.

DONNA SUE SIEGEL

Phone calls, notes: official scurries,
Prod her as through the halls she hurries.

FAREN PENNY SCHWARTZ

We can see her everywhere,
In her little blue Corvair.

MICHAEL ALLEN SHON

This boy considers himself Don Juan.
But we all know him as Mike Shon.

SHARLENE KARIN SILBAR

Freckled face and bouncing walk,
Friendly manner, friendly talk.

MIKE BENJAMIN SIROKY

In school Mike showed us just what he could do,
And now he's bound for Michigan
U.

SHARON DEE SOLWITZ

More of a scatterbrain you will not find,
But Sharon has a brilliant mind.

RONITA HELENE
STEIGER

A contagious laugh wherever it's heard,
She's recognized without saying a word.

BONNIE SUNDSTROM

Carefree and gay in happy moderation,
In athletics she is a sensation.

IANNE STEIN

When you're reading great poems
in future days,
You'll know her works weren't just a phase.

LINDA KAHN

Though only with us for half a year,
We surely are glad that she is here.

EDWIN AARON STRAUSS

Eddie is a different type
Eddie Aaron smokes a pipe.

ELIZABETH TERRELL

The subtle offerings of her wit
Delight those who around her sit.

ADON STUART WEINBERG

For dear old Beachwood he lets his voice ring,
'Cause he likes music and he knows how to sing.

BARBARA LYNNE WEINER

Always jolly and in demand,
Ever willing to lend a hand.

Preparation for study.

SHERYL RENEE WEINER

A girl of boundless energy,
Talent and vitality.

HARRIET WEINGART

As Harriet and Merle walk hand
in hand,
There gleams the prospect of a wedding band.

MARLENE WEISS
Sophistication fits her to a tee.
The first woman president she might be.

ROBIN WHITE
The bottled sunshine on her hair,
applied with cunning art,
Serves as a mirror to reflect the sunshine in her heart.

MARSHALL WINGER
He's honest, big, and so outspoken--
Fierce when precedents are broken.

ALAN WOLF
A vote was taken, we decided by proxy
That Alan's less wolfish than he is foxy.

JEFFREY S. YOUNG
This young man of gymnastic art,
On the road to success has a start.

JERALD B. ZALBEN
Jerry's an accomplished flirt,
Likes his women cute and pert.
